AN OBJECTION TO THE REPORT.

AN OBJECTION TO THE REPORT.

Mr. Thurman (Dem., Ohto) opposed the report, and charged that its language was ambiguous. Another objection he had to it was that the clause submitted to his colleague (Mr. Sherman) providing that all claims should be adjusted and paid on the basis of United States gold coin at the time of the loss was stricken out by the conference committee. The Government of the United States had received the amount on gold, and should pay it to the losers in the same medium. The failure to do that would be not only an act of injustice, but an act of dishonesty.

same medium. The lattire to do that would be not only an act of hijustice, but an act of dishonesty.

Mr. Frelinghuysen said that a court of five competent judges as provided for in the bill would be just as likely to make the award on a fair and just basis as the Senate.

Mr. Thurman said he very much feared that when the claimant came for his money the Secretary of the Treasury would take out his greenbacks and say to him. "This note is a legal tender at its face value for all debts, public and private, except duties on imports and the interest on the public debt."

Mr. Edmunds said the bill left the court free to make the award, and the court could determine whether the claimant should be paid a cum in greenbacks equal to his loss, or whether he should be paid in coin.

Mr. Morton (Rep., Ind.) said the bill settled nothing, and the claims of the insurance companies would all be back there next winter. The payment of the claims authorized in the bill would take not more than one half of the award received from Great Britain, and he predicted that the insurance companies would get the balance of the money.

After further debate the report of the companies was agreed to. Yeas 38, nays 18.

CONFERENCE REPORT. Mr. Rution in explaining the report, said the counit se agreed to the payment of the unin-Bursel losses by the vessels for which the Geneva Gward held Great Britain hable. It agreed to the Senate bill so far as the latter did not allow to insurers or underwriters payment except where on stating an account of profs and loss it appears that the underwriters have made a loss in their whole business. The committee had struck from the Senate bill the provision that the losses and judgments shall be calculated in gold. It had struck out what was known as the five per cent, clause—a clause by which the Government should retain five per cent, for doing the busines (a sort of claims agent fee), and only pay ninety-five per cent, of the judgments. It had inserted a clase that instead of the balance being covered into the Treasury, it is allowed to remain as a fund from which Congress may pay other losses. It had then agreed to a Court of Commission instead of a Circuit Court, and in order to prevent the great evils of a Court of Commission, the conference committee had made void, as the House bill had done, all the assignments for service, all the contingent fees, and had inserted a provision that the Court of Commission shall determine the claims for services in each case.

Mr. Butler added that about $3,000,000 only would be paid out under the bill, and the balance would, in the language of the act, "remain a fund from which Congress may hereafter organize the payment of other claims thereon."

After along discussion the report was agreed to without a division.

THE OMNIBUS APPROPRIATION BILL. THE OMNIBUS APPROPRIATION BILL.

The House then resumed consideration of the Senate amendments to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, and the following were concurred in: Appropriating $89 for advertising in the New York Tribune, $25,000 for the expense of observing the transit of Venus, and $10,000 for collecting information respecting the fur trade in Alaska. The amendments appropriating $40,000 for an equestrian statue of Gen. Nathanlei Greene, and $15,000 for works of art for the ornamentation of the Capitol were non-concurred in.

THE LITTLE SISTERS OF THE POOR.

A like appropriation for the Little Sisters of the Poor. The Committee on Appropriations recommended non-concurrence, on the ground that it was exclusively a sectarian institution. It was argued on the other side that the Little Sisters, in the administration of their charity, made no discrimination on account of sex, color, or religious belief, and after a long debate the amendment was concurred in by lot to 43.

Mr. G. F. Hoar moved to suspend the rules and make in order an amendment appropriating $,000 to relimburse Gen. O. Howard for the excenses of his defence before the late court of inquiry. Lost—Yeas 121, nays 45, not two-thirds voting in the affirmative.

When the eighteenth amendment of the Senate was reached, Mr. Garfield moved to non-concur in the remaining forty amendments of the Senate, in order to have the bill sent to a conference committee. The motion was agreed to and Messrs. Garfield and Hale (Ms.), and Niblack were appointed.

Mr. Dawes (Rep., Mass.) moved to suspend the rules, and non-concur in all the amendments of the Senate to the bill to amend the tariff and revenue laws, and to refer them to a committee of conference. He avowed himself in favor of the Senate amendments, but at the suggestion of the members around him he moved to non-concur. Agreed to, and Messrs. Dawes, Kelley and Beck were appointed a committee of conference. THE LITTLE SISTERS OF THE POOR.

Kelley and Beck were appointed a committee of conference.

THE EVENING SESSION

opened with a very full attendance of members and with great crowds in the galleries.
Mr. Orth of Indiana, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, made a report on Mr. Cox's resolution tendering the thanks of Congress to Sir Lambton Lorraine for his interposition in protecting the lives of the survivors of the Virginius expedition. The report shows that this officer expressly confined his interposition in favor of British subjects, and one French subject, and not at all in behalf of any American citizen, except to beg of "his Excellency," Burfiel, the excellency followed by the United States have, and asks to be discharged from further consideration of the subject. The report was ordered to be printed.

The House then went to business on the Speaker's table and disposed of a number of Senate bills.
On motion of Mr. Kasson, after half an hour Senate is table and disposed of a fundate of senate bills.

On motion of Mr. Kasson, after half an hour recess, a concurrent resolution was adopted extending the session until 4 P. M. on Tuesday.

A DOG'S ELEPHANT NURSE.

Sunday's Excitement in the Hippodrome-Ol

Betsy, the largest of the elephants Barnum's Hippodrome, is twenty-eight year old. She was imported from Germany five year ago, and with her came Carlo, a dog that he long been her inseparable companion. She re fused to leave the ship until Carlo preceded her, and in her subsequent appearances in the ring he always trotted ahead of her. Night and day they have been together. Carlo is sixteen years old, and his quath is daily expected. Six months ago he became too ill to go into the ring, and Betsy has since been with difficulty induced to perform without him. He is failing fast, and Betsy seems to know it. Formerly she tossed perform without him. He is failing fast, and Betsy seems to know it. Formerly she tossed him playfully with her trunk. Now she only pats him softly, and rolls him over very gently. A yelp or whine calls her at once to his side, and she gets angry when anybody but George Moore, her keeper, touches him.

A few months ago, in anticipation of Carlo's death, a new Carlo was put into the pen with Betsy and the younger electhants. It was hoped that he might gradually get a place in the elephantine affections, so that things might go on smoothly after old Carlo's death. The new dog, however, is only tolerated, and sick old Carlo gets all the petting.

Last Sunday afternoon the neighborhood of the Hippodrome was alarmed by that hideous kind of bellowing in which enraged elephants have no rivalry. George Moore, the keeper, ran in from the street, and found the four elephants frantic with rage because the new Carlo was fighting old Carlo. They had tore down the hangings and ornaments of their pen in their efforts to reach the dogs who were lighte passage outside the pen, Betsy being the leader of the movement. Her bellowing was heard two blocks away. Moore seized the iron hook with which he enforces obedience, and at length old Carlo having been rescued from his more vigorous rival, prodded the clephants into subjection. All day yesterday Betsy was tenderer than ever in her care of dying old Carlo, and het thanks her by licking the trunk with which she fondles him.

The World's Coffee Cornered.

The remarkable rise in the price of coffee, in the face of the abolition of the tariff on that article, now turns out to have been the result of a vast speculative combination, having its centre in Rotterdam, Antwerp, and Hamburg. From these cities the most elaborate and ingenious calculations were circulated, alleging short crops and increased consumption. Meanwhile the ring kept on buying, and holding for high prices. Late reports are to the effect that 800,000 bags are stored at Antwerp, with more to arrive, and that the yield everywhere the present year will be enormous. Host of the speculators are already ruined, having staked their entire capital on the risk. From the Boston Transcript.

end to-morrow night. Delegations from Greenville, Bridgeport, New Britain, Hartford, Jersey City, Newark, and Pottsville accompanied them. Capt. Rottmann set the festivities in motion at 1 o'clock by firing fourguns, the first for the office of President of the United States, the second for the Governor of New York State, one for the Governor of New York State, one for the Governor of New Jersey, and the last for the New York Corps. The shooting is done off-hand, and the targets are 600 feet from the marksmen. The Remlington sporting and the imported German riles are preferred. Eight bullseye targets were opened. For the greatest number of bullseyes made during the festival a gold medal is to be given, and $15, $10, $8, $6, $4, and $2 for the shots ranging themselves below. Small cash prizes are offered for the first and last bullseyes on both days, and for the greatest number each day. The target Union is 25 concentric circles, which are counted from the circumference to the centre. On this target $400 in 35 prizes is offered, the highest being $60 and the lowest $3. The man target resembles a man's shadow on the wall, and is striped with 10 perpendicular lines. The highest number is the centre line. Thirty prizes, amounting to $350, are offered. In bowling prizes, $75 in gold was distributed last night.

The target attracting the most shooters was a double-headed eagle with wings outstretched and tail spread. On each head was a crown, in each claw a sceptre, and each side bore a staff with the German colors waving from one and the Stars and Stribes from the other. A gilt crown was perched between the heads. Only members of the New York Corps were allowed to contend for the honors won by shooting off the prominent perts. The shooter who brings down the last fragment of wood is to be crowned King of the festival to-morrow afternoon, after being escorted to the stand of honor by fifty young ladies in white. The Impeachment of Durell and Busteed.
WASHINGTON, June 22.—No further action on the impeachment of Durell and Busteed, recommended by the House Judiciary Committee, will be taken this session. The report of the committee was ordered printed and recommitted, and therefore the subject rests in that position until next session, when it can be called up for action at any time by the committee. It is understood that new and important evidence has heen discovered which will in the mean time be taken.
There is not the such test doubt that both Durell and Busteed will be impeached within thirty days after the

A Bet that was made at the Time of Genet's Trial-An Apology to be made for Asper-sions upon the Integrity of a Juror.

A suit has been instituted in the Marine Court by John Halloran of 353 East 124th street, against Charles H. Medicus, furniture dealer at 90 New Bowery, to recover $1,000 deposited with Medicus about the time of Henry W. Genet's trial. Halloran having been introduced to Medicus at Sweeny's Hotel, offered to bet Medicus $1,000 to $5 that Genet would be convicted. Medicus took the bet, and Halloran, believing that Medicus was a responsible man. deposited the $1,000 with him, the $1,000 and the $5 having been rolled up in a package toge-ther. Genet was convicted, but Medicus has over the $5. The seemingly reckless bet by Halloran is explained by the fact that Medicus had a business partner, Valentine Schneider,

ON THE GENET JURY.

ON THE GENET JURY.

Mr. Schneider is a young man with an incipient moustache and pleasant, honest features. He declined to tell the Sun reporter anything about his connection with the case, but his partner and brother-in-law, Medicus, a substantial, round-bodied German was more communicative. This was a job put up, he said, and whenever Mr. Hailoran would take back what he had said about Mr. Schneider he might have his $1,000. The money remained where it had been first placed, and had not been touched.

"But, Mr. Medicus, don't you think it was a grave breach of propriety to make such a bet while your partner was on the jury?"

SOMETHING MORE TO BE TOLD.

"I will say nothing more about it now," was the reply. "When this comes to trial the people will hear some startling things."
Mr. Halloran said: "I was introduced to Mr. Medicus by a gentleman in Harlem whom I have known for years, and who is also well acquainted with Medicus. I believed the firm and Mr. Medicus personally to be honorable and responsible. I made the bet of $1,000 rather hoping that I might lose. The conversation at Sweeney's Hotel was about this way: I said to Mr. Medicus that I thought Genet was going to be convicted. He replied—"He won't be convicted."
I replied—"I believe he will be convicted."
Mr. Medicus said—"You don't dare bet that he will be convicted." SOMETHING MORE TO BE TOLD. An Entangled Life Cord.

In his examination preliminary to trial Mr. Medicus said that he was excited at the time that Hailoran offered to be with him, and "precautious" as to what he was about to do, that he had deposited the money in the firm name in the bank, and held it because Hailoran had said that Schneider could be influenced by money.

RETRACTION DEMANDED.

Halloran has been urged by a mutual friend of himself and Medicus to apologize for the opinion alleged to have been expressed by him that Schneider could be bought up. It is understood that he has nearly reconciled himself to doing this, and that the case may be settled and the money returned.

GRAHAM'S $132,600.

Defending a Suit to Gain Authority for Rid-

Before Judge Van Vorst, James Lorimer It seems that after he was let down, the diver who owned the armor was somewhat doubtful in regard to the power of the air pump, and flinning from the sense of feeling that he was doing nothing on the bed of the river, signalled several times but got no answer. Those on the vessel saw his countenance change to asky white. Then the alarm became general, and all possible haste was made to get the diver to the surface. Gardner, for $132,600 was called yesterday. On the 1st of May, 1871, Mr. Graham, riding home-ward in a Sixth avenue car, with $132,600 in stocks and bonds in a satchel, became enstocks and folias in a satchel, became engrossed in a newspaper and passed the street in which he lived. On discovering his mistake, he sprang from the car, forgetting his satchel. He soon missed it, pursued and overtook the car, but the satchel had disappeared. He inquired for it in the office of the railroad company, advertised it in the newspapers, circulated handbills offering a liberal reward, and warned bankers and brokers not to negotiate the bonds and stocks. To his A Duel Between Col. Butler and Gen. Greene

—A Meeting and a Postponement.

Washington Special to the Baltimere Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—A duel was arranged to take place in "Rum Row," near the National Theatre, about 2 o'clock this morning, the principals being Col. George H. Butler, a nephew of Gen. B. F. Butler, and formerly American Consul General to Exppt, and Gen. Greene, who is well known here. All the preparations had been made, the seconds chosen, and the pistols loaded. Mr. Mit Jones, the proprietor of the billiard saloon over the theatre, was selected to load the same. The men took positions, and when Mr. Jones advanced to place the caps on the pistols, friends interfered, and the duel was thus prevented. It is said, however, that it will take place in a few days in the White Lot south of the Executive Manslon. Col. Butler has fought several duels. Recently he was made prominent by receiving a challenge from Florence, the comedian, while he was performing in this city. Butler accepted and arrived here the following day, and met Florence in the Arlington. They settled the difficulty over a bottle of wine, and both attended a bail that night given by the Americus Yacht Ciub. This last affair is creating considerable talk. The objection to fight on the part of Greene was because he did not like to shoot in the dark. eral reward, and warned bankers and brokers not to negotiate the bonds and stocks. To his utter astonishment, one day recently, Mr. Littleton G. Garrettson, one of the executors of Esquire Gardner's estate called upon him to ask why he had not transferred the bonds and stocks on the back. He said that they had been found among Mr. Gardner's assets, but that there was nothing to show how he became their possessor. Mr. Graham then told his story to Mr. Garrettson, and as the executors could not deliver the property without a legal adjudication concerning the right of ownership, it was mutually agreed that a friendly lawsuit should be instituted. Mr. Graham having proved his title to the bonds and stocks, Judge Van Voost permitted the executors to surender them to him.

THE SENATE AND THE REPORTERS. The Extravagant Expenditure of $50 a Year for Stationery to be Continued—No Madeira Wine or Pound Cake Allowed.

WASHINGTON, June 22 .- Mr. Carpenter, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, submitted a report and resolution offered by Mr. Hamlin that no order or requisition for stationery for the use of the reporters' gallery of the Senate should be issued by the presidin officer. The report is almost entirely devoted to tingent expenses of the Senate, and an elaborate reply to the criticisms of the newspaper rate reply to the criticisms of the newspaper press on the expenditure of the fund. It abounds in quotations from all the accounts, showing how money appropriated for that purpose was formerly used. For instance, in the year 1800, on the occasion of the funeral of Senator Malbone of Rhode Island, a voucher was presented for seven galions of the best Madeira wine, $28; four galions cognac brandy, $8; twelve pounds of aimonds, $1.30; and ten pounds of raisins, $5. On this account the committee would allow only for four galions of wine and three quarts of brandy, $22; but passed another voucher for fourteen pounds of pound cake, amounting to $7. The report says:
